

QUALITY OF YOUR CARE DEPENDS ON DATA

Transformation in aged care landscape means that people have more choice and say in the type of care they want to receive, making customer service and experience the newest battlefield for aged care providers.

Multiple dimensions to quality care and exceptional customer experience prevail but it all starts and ends with a clear understanding of customers' needs, wants and requirements.

KEY CONSIDERATIONS FOR DATA-DRIVEN DECISION-MAKING

The increased opportunities to collect and leverage data have affected how decisions are made.

Be specific about how quality of care should look like for customers.

Integrate measurement into your daily operations to track and record relevant data.

Know what your data collection goals are.

Review and use the data regularly.

TO ACHIEVE THIS YOU WILL NEED

Control and governance of data regardless of where it is.

Consistent data management across multiple environments.

Integration between new technologies and services with existing environments.

Flexibility with the applications, delivery and deployment models.

Increase responsiveness. Innovate quicker.
When data is accessible where needed most.
